

LuckPerms

What It Is

LuckPerms is a permissions plugin for Minecraft servers. It allows server admins to control what features players can use by creating groups and assigning permissions.

With this, you can set very granular permissions per user and per group to allow those users and groups access to certain commands.

Plan

I'd like to set up three main groups: admin, moderator, and default. Admin has access to everything, moderator has access to most things, and default has "typical" player privileges.

Additionally, each user will have areas assigned to them (via WorldGuard) where they have additional privileges and other users have fewer privileges.

Lastly, certain worlds (especially survival and anarchy) will have specific privilege sets that are more or less restrictive than the regular worlds.
